WITNESS LINKS RUSSELL WITH LIQUOR PLOT

THOUSANDS WRAPPED IN NEWSPAPERS ARE GIVEN TO ATTORNEY

Confessed Conspirator Relates Story Before Hayner case Jury

Cleveland, O., June 2.—The tale of how bundles of cash, in packets of $11,200 to $15,000, wrapped in newspapers, were carried in a little black bag to the room of Warren E. Barnett at the Southern Hotel, Columbus will be resumed today when Abe Ungerleider, confessed conspirator in the Armand-Hayner liquor plot, again takes the witness stand.

Facing the jury of twelve men with apparent calm, Ungerleider, a short, rotund man, with blinking eyes, told in a matter of fact voice, how he obtained permit for 8,000 cases of Hayner whiskey, paid out $173,000 to do this and personally made $90,000. Charging that he paid in payments of $11,200 and $15,000, a total of $173,000 to Attorney Barnett-Ungerleider, also connected up Joshua E. Russell, former prohibition director of Ohio and Merle B. Copeland, his chief aide, with the conspiracy. It was not direct testimony, however, but conversation he claims to have had with Barnett in which the names of Russell and Copeland were brought out.

"Barnett told me that if his party was appointed he would be able to obtain large withdrawal permits. I was told 'his party was Russell,'" Ungerleider declared. "Later when he raised the price from $15 to $20 for each case withdrawn, he explained that Copeland and others were getting their cut."

"I talked to Harry Grossberg about this and he said we would have to raise the price to Peter Higgins, to whom we were selling it," he said.

Ungerleider also declared that he paid $25,000 to Barnett for what he said Barnett described "political purposes."

"Barnett called me and said that government agents were investigating the Armand Drug and Candy Company and that he could fix the two agents for $5,000. I gave him this, Grossberg furnishing half."

Later he said in order to avoid all of us getting into trouble he would have to fix things at Washington and would need $25,000. This was given to him and he went to Washington, Ungerleider said. He also stated that he had purchased warehouse receipts for 400 barrels of whiskey from Cecil B. Kearns, former Toledo drug-gist.

Walter Meals, chief defense counsel for Barnett, cross-examined the witnesses at length concerning Ungerleider's meetings with Barnett, at the Southern hotel. It was first at a card game that he discussed the obtaining of permits with Barnett. He could name no persons at the games and finally contradicted himself and said he had not talked about whiskey at the games.

Harry A. Grossberg, Cleveland, attorney, who had pleaded guilty to the conspiracy, will probably be the second government witness on the stand today. Peter J. Higgins, Youngstown millionaire and former wholesale liquor dealer, will follow Grossberg. It was Higgins who brought packages of $52,000 to Columbus, each time Barnett is alleged to have received the smaller ones. The rest of the money was spent for whiskey, Ungerleider and Grossberg had gotten their slice, according to yesterday's testimony.

MONKEY REFUSED ROOM AT HOTEL

New York, June 2.—"No monkeys as guests," the genial clerks at two of New York's exclusive hotels told George M. Dyott, English author and gentleman traveler just arrived from South America, where he made a vain search for "white Indians."

The hotels were glad to accommodate Mr. Dyott, but not the monkey, "Mr. Brown."

Dyott took his monkey, which he captured in the Andes, to a third hotel. There they agreed to take in the monkey.

MELLON SAYS GREAT BRITAIN RESTORED BY PAYING ITS DEBTS

Other Countries Want Better Terms For Debt Funding.

Washington, June 2.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon does not believe it will ever be possible for France and other European nations to re-establish their credit, stabilize their currency and return to the gold standard, as has Great Britain, without funding their seven billion dollars of indebtedness to the United States.

This statement was made at the treasury today in the course of a discussion of the international financial situation as it affects the foreign debts of this government.

Pointing out that Great Britain considers the funding of her $4,600,000,000 debt to the United States as a big asset in getting back to the gold standard and in putting her fiscal affairs in order officials declared that what was true in the case of England would continue so in the case of the other debtor nations.

"As soon as the Anglo-American debt negotiation was concluded," one member of the American debt commission said, "British credit at once became stronger and British securities in this country went to higher values as compared with values prior to the funding."

It was learned at the treasury that nearly all the nations which have entered into preliminary debt negotiations with the United States have asked for better terms than those accorded Great Britain, that is, funding over a period of sixty years with a minimum interest rate of three percent. As a general rule, however, the American debt commission will regard that congress would not approve any settlement far removed from the British terms, regardless of the attitude of the debt commission.

Officials said it was necessary for the commission to keep the attitude of congress constantly in mind to avoid the possibility of being confronted with the refusal of congress to ratify one of the debt agreements.

As chairman of the American debt commission, Secretary Mellon opposed any proposal to state debt negotiations anywhere except in Washington. He declared the commission was created to operate in this city and that it would not be practicable for the cabinet members who are on the commission to go abroad.

The opinion also was expected in official quarters that any debt negotiations in Europe in which the United States took part were likely to develop into a general international debt conference which all the debtor nations putting up a united front in favor of cancellation or substantial reduction.

Other mobs scattered through the foreign section and stoned street cars, which are now running practically empty.

New York, June 2.—General Owen O'Duffy, chief commissioner of the Irish civil guard, still holder of a spotless uniform today in spite of having run a gauntlet of bad eggs thrown at his party while reviewing the 165th infantry, formerly known as the "Fighting Sixty Ninth."

The missiles, alleged to have been thrown by a delegation from the Clan Na Gael, as a protest against the Irish Free State, did not hit anyone in General O'Duffy's party. The general met the barrage with smiles.

One hundred plain clothes men and a squad of M. P.'s quickly routed those responsible for the disturbance.

PARTY CONVENTION PLAN TO BE DISCUSSED AT MEET

SPECIAL COMMITTEE MEETS IN COLUMBUS FOR INQUIRY IN LAW

Will Seek Modernization of Election Code In Ohio Is Report

Columbus, O., June 2.—Plans for resumption of the convention method of picking candidates for election to state and local offices are to be studied in connection with the inquiry into Ohio election laws to be opened here today at an organization meeting of the special committee created by the 1925 legislature.

Complete modernization of the Ohio election code is to be sought by the committee. One of the most important suggestions expected to be offered is substitution of the Massachusetts ballot system for the present modified form of the Australian ballot. Changes to be studied include the registration statutes, the form of ballot and the tangle of primary elections.

The committee is expected to name as its secretary an expert on election matters who will probably be recommended by Secretary of State Thad H. Brown, chief supervisor of elections in Ohio. R. J. Dustman, Columbus, has been suggested. Plans are to be made for a study of election laws in most of the progressive states to the end that the Ohio election code may be completely modernized.

Proposals are expected to be presented to the committee for permanent registration of voters; for annual and quadrennial registration, as well as for compulsory enrollment of all electors in the state. The final report of the committee's work will have to be made after the November general elections when the proposed constitutional amendment providing for four year terms for all elective state and county offices will be voted upon by the people.

The two efforts of Republican state leaders to have the legislature enact a convention bill are expected to be the basis of the study of suggested changes in the direct primary laws to be undertaken by the committee. One was the ill fated primary convention bill, which was withdrawn for lack of support and the other the Aigler convention resolution which proposed a constitutional amendment substituting the convention system for the primary system in selection of candidates for state and county offices.

Both measures died without a vote. The committee includes State Senators Carpenter, of Jefferson; Gardner, of Hamilton and Chapplear, of Pickaway; State Representatives Hunt of Lucas, Keifer of Clark and Knapp of Medina; Secretary of State Brown; Ray Hillebrand of Hamilton County election board, and A. J. Hirstius, secretary of the Cuyahoga County elections board.

LIGHTNING TAKING DEATH TOLL IN WAKE OF HEAT CASUALTIES

Thunderstorms Follow Hottest June 1 In Ohio Is Prediction

Chicago, June 2.—Severe electrical storms were sweeping the midwest today bringing in relief from the first real torrid weather of the season which yesterday claimed victims in a score of cities as thermometers climbed into the nineties.

Four were dead in Chicago proper as a result of the hottest June 1 in history, making a total of six heat deaths since Sunday. Yesterday's maximum here was 92.2, reached at 4:30 p. m. but today started more auspiciously with the thermometers hovering around eighty and the weather bureau predicted that there would be little if any rise during the day.

The thunderstorms crashing through the hot, dry air in the wake of the heat also were taking their toll of human life and property damage.

Two, a golfer and a farmer, were killed by lightning bolts at Des Moines and seven were injured, two perhaps fatally at Sioux City, Iowa, where more than a dozen homes were demolished, trees uprooted and wire communications paralyzed.

And while the midwest suffered, it was snowing at Rock Springs, Wyoming. There was a fall of eight inches there after several days of unseasonable cold.

Cleveland, O., June 2.—Another day of sweltering heat, following the hottest June 1 recorded in fifty-four years in Ohio weather history, faced Cleveland and other parts of the state today. Thunderstorms tomorrow were expected to ameliorate the intense heat which has taken three lives in Cleveland and suburbs. The highest mark here yesterday was 91. Marietta suffered under a temperature of 95, the highest recorded in the state, Lima being second with 94.

Heat victims in Cleveland and suburbs included C. H. Benedict, 67, Woodster; Thomas Moran and Frank Mikloski, Cleveland.

FAIRFIELD PIKE TO BE IMPROVED WITH STATE ROAD MONEY

Greene County Commissioners announced Monday following a conference with members of the state highway department at Columbus, that a total of $54,000 has been set aside by the state to aid in the construction and remodeling of the Fairfield Pike.

The Fairfield Pike, inter-county highway No. 525, Section 1, will be remodeled into a hard surface road from the Springfield Pike to the Byron cross road, a distance of three and three fourths miles.

The $54,000 assigned to Greene County represents inter-county highway funds and state aid in the project. The cost of construction will be borne by the county and state on a fifty-fifty basis.

County Commissioners may not make use of the fund nor begin work of actual construction until a formal application is made to the state department for aid. Under the provisions of a new law, recently enacted, an application can not be made before July 16, when the law becomes effective.

No estimate can be made on the total cost of construction until it is decided what type of pike will be laid, it is said. Estimates will be taken on several different types of roads, it was announced.

Actual improvement work probably can not be launched this year since a survey must first be made of the pike.

Auditor Lutz will be the speaker of the occasion and tell of the problems connected with the re-appraisal his county met and solved. Montgomery County recently completed a re-appraisal. The meeting is called for 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

A pretty ceremony was performed at the parsonage of St. Bridg Church Monday evening at 5 o'clock, when Miss Florence Baker and Mr. John Cronin were united in marriage by the Rev. David A. Powers.

The couple was attended by Miss Sarah Braun of Dayton and Mr. Luke Fletcher of this city. The bride wore an attractive ensemble of yellow beaded crepe with a hat of a corresponding shade. Her corsage was of sweet peas.

A wedding dinner followed the ceremony at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Cronin, on Maple Street. Thirty guests were seated at small tables throughout the rooms. Yellow and white appointments were effectively employed and at the bride's table, which was prettily laid, covers were laid for: Mr. and Mrs. John Cronin, Miss Sarah Braun, Mr. Luke Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Cronin, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Reynolds, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cronin, Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. John Downes, Mr. Joseph McCabe and Mr. Michael O'Connor.

Mr. and Mrs. Cronin left on a bright honeymoon trip, Monday night. Mrs. Cronin wore away a crepe frock in a dark shade, with a hat to match. On their return they will reside in the Heaton Apartments, South Detroit Street.

Mrs. Cronin has been residing with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ary on Hiveling Street and was employed at the law offices of Miller and Finney as stenographer. Mr. Cronin is employed as conductor on the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, between Columbus and Xenia.

SUNDAY "BLUE LAW" WAR MARKS TIME AS JOHNSON IS ABSENT

The Sunday closing law war was at a standstill Tuesday pending the return to Xenia of Attorney F. L. Johnson, who is foremost in the drive to make Sunday closing obligatory in Greene County.

Information gained by two private detectives who scoured the county last Sunday in search of merchants doing their usual business on Sunday in violation of the state law was scheduled to be turned into affidavits Tuesday with wholesale arrests following, but the absence of Attorney Johnson necessitated the postponement of this action until probably Wednesday.

Street rumors were current Tuesday to the effect that between thirty and thirty-five affidavits had been prepared against Xenia and Greene County merchants engaging in common labor last Sunday.

Merchants who may be affected by the Sunday closing law are not worried outwardly at the prospect of possible citation in court, but are conducting business as usual.

TRIAL POSTPONED

Trial of Lewis Swan, this city, on a charge of unlawful possession of narcotics, scheduled to begin in Common Pleas Court Tuesday before Judge R. L. Gowdy, has been continued until an early date in July. It was announced Tuesday. Swan was indicted by the Grand Jury for unlawful possession of drugs and entered a plea of not guilty at his arraignment.

HERE COMES DOLLAR DAY!

Thursday, June 11, will be semi-annual Dollar Day.

This bit of interesting information was imparted to the press Tuesday by merchants who are convining to offer Greene County buyers their mid-summer feast of bargain catching.

Greene County knows its Dollar Days, and has come to look for them with ever growing enthusiasm. They know merchants select these special sale days as the opportune moment to move stock from shelves and convert it into cash at almost any sacrifice. They know it gives the merchant the opportunity to move goods to make way for later buying and they have come to know that the public benefits.

Merchants have several reasons for making Dollar Day a real bargain day this year, but they are keeping them quiet. The conspiracy is afoot and the plot thickens. Prices, they say, will be slashed and slaughtered brutally and buyers, no doubt, will be on hand for the carnage in large numbers. Details will be announced later.

ANGLERS MUST GET LICENSE BY TEAMS OF NEW LAW IN OHIO

A copy of Amended Senate Bill No. 4, providing that no person shall catch fish by angling with reel and rod in any waters of this state or engage in fishing with reel or rod without first procuring a license, has been received by Clerk of Courts Harvey Elam.

Attorney General C. C. Crabbe has ruled that the bill is an emergency measure and therefore becomes effective immediately. However, supplies of the new licenses, said to resemble hunting licenses, have not been received in Xenia.

Persons under eighteen years of age are exempt from the law and may fish without first obtaining a license since the law is believed to be only aimed at ardent sportsmen.

The applicant must pay the clerk in authority to grant licenses $2 if a non-resident of Ohio and $1 for a license, if a resident. A fee of twenty-five cents is also assessed applicants who are non-residents of the state in addition as a clerk's fee. Village and township clerks and clerks of courts are empowered to grant licenses. The money derived from the sale of licenses will be appropriated by the state for the use of the director of agriculture in the preservation and protection of fish and hatcheries and fish culture.

Persons and their families living on property in which a stream passes through, are exempt from procuring a license to fish in their own stream as are tenants on their farms and their families.

The minimum fine for violation of this law is $25 and the maximum fine, $200.

PAROLE PRISONERS FROM COUNTY JAIL

W. R. Allen, Jamestown and James Baker, colored Cedarville, prisoners in the County Jail, have been paroled by Greene County Commissioners, it was announced Tuesday.

Allen was convicted of a charge of possessing liquor by George W. Bishop, mayor of Jamestown, January 2, 1925 and sent to jail in default of payment of an $800 fine and costs. He was paroled on condition that he pay the fine and costs less a credit of $100.00 at the rate of $5 a month.

Baker was convicted of a similar charge of possessing liquor.

RESIDENTS OF GERMAN Y PARTIES TO SUIT HERE TO BREAK WILL OF GEORGE BRANDT

Suit has been filed in Common Pleas Court through Attorney Frank L. Johnson to set aside the will of George Brandt, who died May 30, 1924, leaving an estate and plaintiffs named in the suit as the only heirs, according to the petition.

Twenty-four plaintiffs are named in the suit and twenty-seven defendants. A number of the parties named in the action are residents of Germany. Following are the plaintiffs: Herman, Leonard and George Volkenand; Anna Grotfeller, nee Volkenand; Martha Higgins, nee Volkenand; Ernest and George Zinn; Mrs. Emma Nolde, John Malkmes, Konrad and John George Malkmes; Anna Katherine Ekhardt, nee Malkmes; Anna Margarethe Fischer, nee Eichler; Herman Johann Volkenand, Johann Simon Volkenand, Nicolas Brandt, Johannes George, Brandt, George Brandt, Anna Kirscher, nee Brandt, Anna Margarethe Spangenberg nee Schneider, and Peter Schneider, Margarethe Krause, Anna Katherine Beck, and Katherine Elizabeth Eichler.

Defendants in the action: George Ferguson, executor of the estate of George Brandt, deceased; Anna Han-stedt, Martha Hanstedt, Mary Hanstedt, William McCallister, Sadie McCallister, and William M. McCallister Jr., a minor, Louise McCallister, a minor, Norbert McCallister, a minor, Marcus McCallister, children of William and Sadie McCallister, surviving; George Brandt, Arthur Moon, Dr. Geo. Anderson, Winifred Anderson Sugden, Florence Spahr Pennewitt, Marietta Spahr, Mt. Zion Church, George Smith, Bert Hawker and Otto Keiter, trustees of church; Mt. Zion Cemetery Ed Shoup, Harry Darst and Neal Zimmerman, trustees of Cemetery, Jas. Zechmen, Charles Coy and Mrs. May Coy.

The plaintiffs claim that a paper, purporting to be the last will of George Brandt, deceased, and bearing the date of June 8, 1922 was admitted to probate and named the defendants as the several legatees of the deceased.

The plaintiffs claim it was not the last will and ask that it be set aside and equitable relief.

A plea in abatement to the action was filed Tuesday by the executor of the estate of George Brandt, deceased, through Attorney Charles L. Darlington, denying that any of the plaintiffs are heirs and asking that the petition be dismissed.

Attorneys Alfred K. Nippert, Raymond Ratliff, Charles W. Finch and F. L. Johnson represent the plaintiffs in the suit.

MANSLAUGHTER CASE DROPPED IN COURT

A charge of manslaughter against J. W. Davis, 27, colored, Dayton, was dismissed Tuesday at his arraignment before Squire R. O. Copey because of insufficient evidence. Davis was immediately released from custody. He had pleaded not guilty to the charge. Coroner R. L. Haines, Jamestown, following an inquest into the death of Clyde Thornton, colored of Dayton, as the result of an automobile accident on the Dayton and Xenia pike, two weeks ago, held Davis as driver of the car responsible.

MODISH MITZI—Mitzi Rises At Cockcrow

After all, thinks Mitzi, this is one of the minor evils of life in the country and as long as she is awake she may as well get up. Your attention is invited to her nightgown—of crepe de chine with frills of the same—and a neatly tailored pocket to hold a handkerchief.

In pursuance of her plan and in accord with her ardent, though new, love for the simple life Mitzi will put on a house dress of blue linen. She may want to do some gardening or go down to the post office or watch the morning train come in. For all these events the linen dress is suitable.

Yet the figured voile is awfully attractive and is made with a long tunic, though you can't see that. Yellow, with black squares and a thread of black outlining a large check. Undoubtedly this is more becoming and Mitzi has practically decided that this is much the best frock of all.

However it's her mind and Mitzi can change it—and evidently has since this dress is of striped cotton broadcloth with a frill and trimmings of the same material in white. Also it seems to be much later than it was—in fact it's doubtful whether anyone will be impressed at Mitzi's early rising, at all.

A NATIONAL LOSS

DEATH stalks pitilessly among the stalwart statesmen of the Republican faith. The flowers on Rodger's grave had not withered when Hon. Arthur B. Williams of Michigan, was summoned to answer the last roll call. Williams was a comparatively young man, 53, yet he brought to Congress a three-ply wealth of experience which added greatly to the intellectual capital of that body. He had by turns achieved success as a farmer, a banker and a large manufacturer before he laid his talents on the altar of his country. To him the honors and emoluments of office meant little. In a sense, that he might more effectively serve the nation, he accepted dejection.

Williams was unquestionably the foremost authority in official life on the subject of co-operative farm marketing, and the bill he drafted on that question was one of the most constructive and carefully planned pieces of legislation that has ever been offered for Congressional consideration. It received little momentum in the last session due to the fact that the so-called bloc that has been "farming the farmers" apparently could agree on nothing practical to help the farmer along, and so they quashed real legislation. The Williams Bill will probably come up for action in the next session of Congress, and out of deference to its dead author it would be well if his name were perpetuated by permitting the bill to retain its present name.

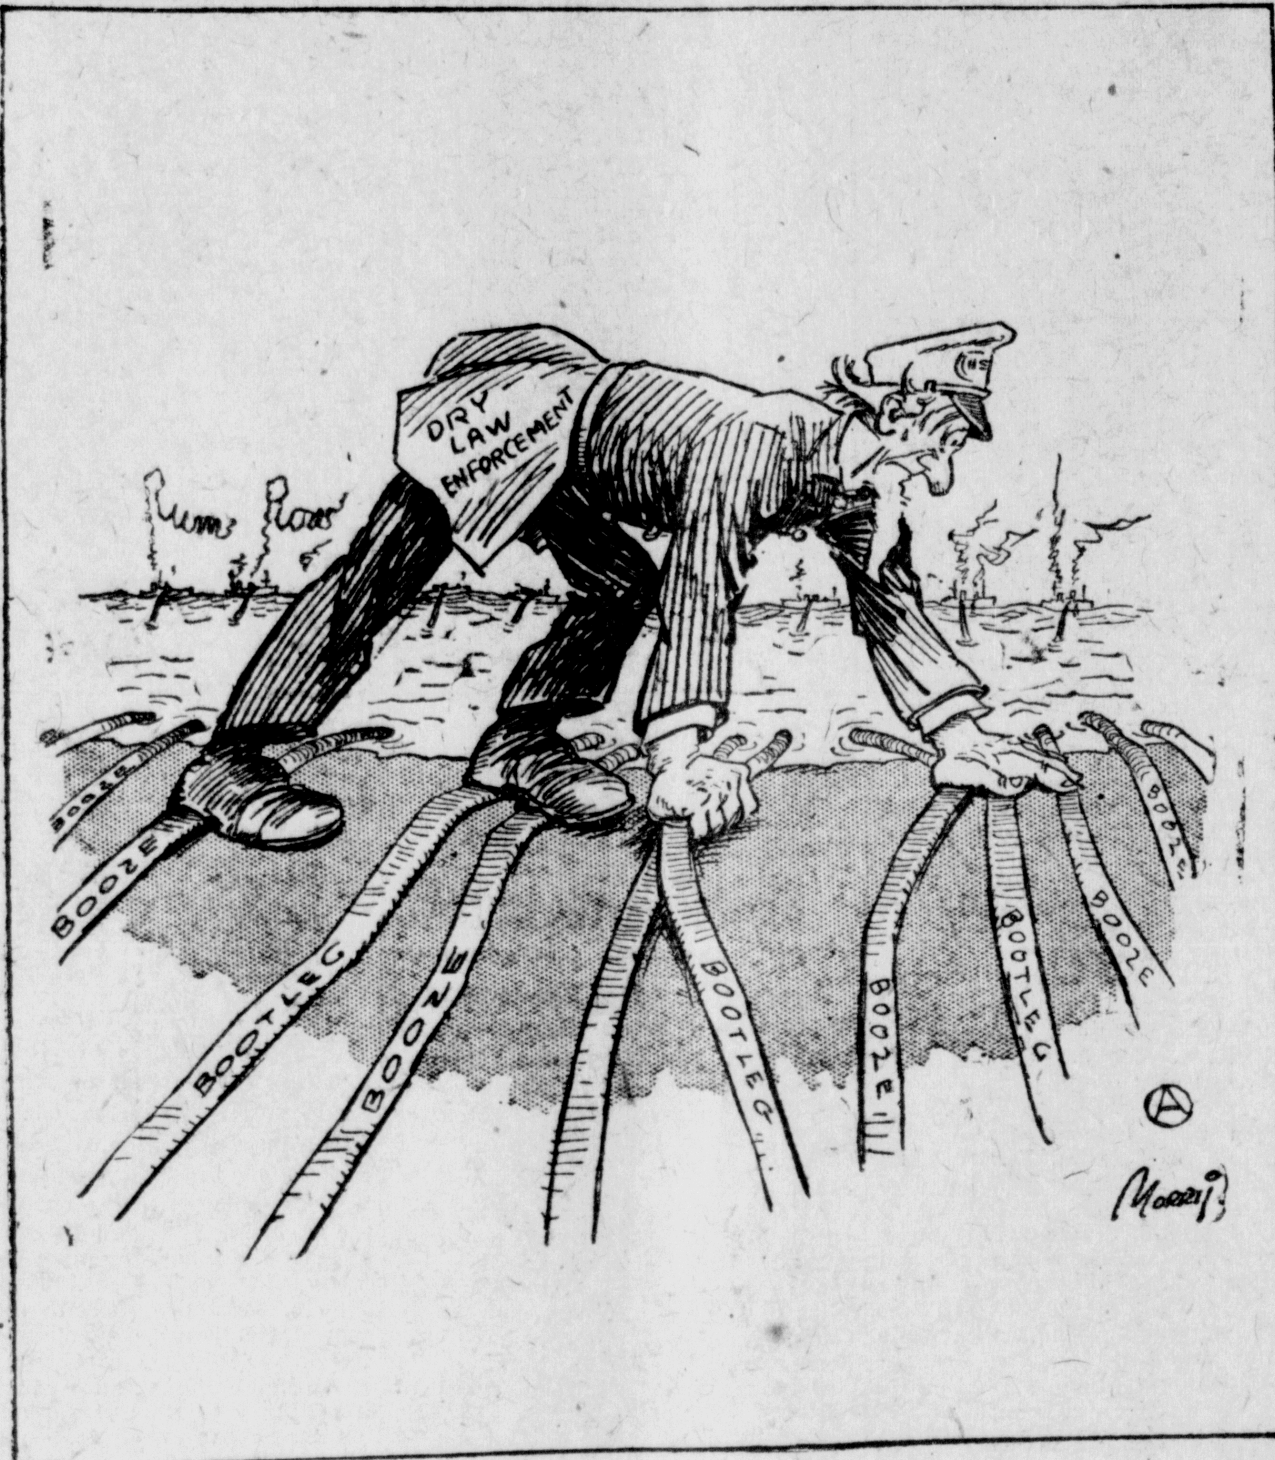

CHILDREN AND NEWSPAPERS

MOOSEHEART, as most people know, is the place where the Order of Moose maintains a famous home and school for whose existence Secretary of Labor Davis is largely responsible. Matthew R. Adams, known as the "father," also the "mother," of the 1,250 children assembled there, wants the youngsters to be fully educated, and education, he believes, involves an acquaintance with the life of the world and of the community around them that can only be derived from the newspapers. Therefore he wants the children under his care to read the newspapers and to get the habit of such reading.

Mr. Adams disagrees entirely with the parents and teachers who are afraid their children and pupils will be influenced to evil by the stories of crime published in the papers—as if reports of crime were the only things published, and as if normally intelligent and well-trained children would not be influenced against it by the stories of vicious conduct rather than impelled to imitate. Two criminal events to which more space has been given in the American press than any others in the last year or so took place not so very far from Mooseheart. One was the tragedy at Herrin, the other the deliberate and unprovoked murder in Chicago by two boys of a younger lad. It is not likely that the Mooseheart boys will engage in mob violence and savage slaughter of their neighbors when they grow up as a result of knowing of the horrors of Herrin or that they will be moved to kill schoolmates for the mere sake of killing because of reading of what occurred in Chicago and of the fate of the young criminals.

Children who grow to maturity in this or any other country must and do learn from one source, if not another that crime and vice do exist in the world and all around them. They must know these things for their own protection, and nowhere can they learn them with less harm to themselves than from the calm, unbiased narration of facts by reputable newspapers. The superintendent of Mooseheart thinks there is so much in a newspaper of interest and value, so much useful information, so many stories of bravery, sacrifice, great deeds, so many inspiring ideas and such human sympathy that it can not safely be missed as a part of a liberal education. He is right in every particular. If the people who want, or profess to want, records of crime omitted from papers, or at least kept off the front page and hidden in some obscure corner, would devote themselves to an enumeration of the commendable reading matter in the columns, they would find the space given to crime small in comparison.

"M. M.: A reader of your column recently asked for a recipe for pastry made with eggs. I have used the following for fruit pies, tarts and fancy little cakes. Egg Pastry—Rub one fourth pound of butter into one half pound of flour with the fingers, then add one ounce of sugar and one half teaspoon of baking powder, and stir in two beaten egg-yolks. Whisk lightly, turn out onto a bread board, and roll out at once. If you wish to use it for pie crust, simply line the pie pan with it, as with any other pastry. But if you would like to make a fancy cake of it, try the following:

Almond Fingers: Line a long-shaped pan with the pastry made as above directed, then spread a little raspberry jam over the pastry on the pan bottom and fill with the following mixture: Blanch and chop six ounces of sweet almonds; mix them with three ounces of sugar, and fold in the stiffly whipped whites of two eggs. Slip the pan into a hot oven to set the pastry, then reduce oven heat to moderate and continue to bake for about 30 minutes."

"Mrs. M. S.: Some time ago one of our column sisters asked for a recipe for Cinnamon Stars, which I happen to have: Beat the white of three eggs very stiff, then stir into them one-half pound of sugar; continue to stir for about 30 minutes, after which add three tablespoons of ground cinnamon and one half pound

Today's Talks

Joseph Conrad was nearly 40 year of age when he wrote his first book, though he was recognized at his death as the greatest prose writer in the world.

Disraeli who became Prime Minister of Great Britain, was once a champion boxer and fighter and left the ring undefeated. Now I understand why he was such a great fighter as a statesman.

Walt Mason, whose quaint prose-rhymes have delighted millions for many 20 years, was unknown and discouraged at the age of 43.

And this list could be continued until it covered this newspaper. The fact is that ripeness doesn't come in youth. But youth may be carried into age and share all the fruits of ripeness.

Youth is glorious in all its beauty and passion, its aspiration and its risks, but age with its ripeness of experience and knowledge is far more wonderful and beautiful. As much more so as the sun in its setting of gold, and purples and crimsons when day is done.

A few weeks ago I passed through a country rich in apple trees that made the very roadside a garden.

The May blossoms gave the trees an appearance of lacework. But I remembered taking that same journey only last autumn and seeing those very trees laden with apples that were green and red and luscious in their appetite appeal. And so I saw apple pies and apple butter and sweet cider—just a little way off from those branches of loveliness.

And who would not prefer the autumn of the apple tree to its springtime, beautiful as it is?

We are glad of both. That is the way the great Creator meant it to be. We must have beauty and with it the ripeness of fruit.

But it takes work and thought and love to bring about the blossom. And without the blossom there can be no ripe fruit.

PESKY BED-BUGS

Bedbugs lay an average of seven eggs per day. Under favorable conditions they hatch in five days of which two thirds are females. They mature to adult size and are capable of laying in four weeks. How many bedbugs would you have in a year if you left one female or egg unmolested for one year?

To rid the pesky bedbugs, you really see how necessary it is to use a preparation that will kill the eggs as well as the live ones.

P. D. Q. has been demonstrated by the leading Hospitals, Hotels and Railroad Companies that the safest and most economical way to stop future generations of bedbugs, roaches, moths and ants is to use the new discovery Pesky Devils Quicker "P. D. Q." A 16c package of P. D. Q. makes a quart, enough to kill a million bedbugs, roaches, fleas and moths and at the same time destroy their eggs. Impossible for them to exist when P. D. Q. is properly used. Free a patent spot in every package to get the pesky devils in the hard-to-get-at places and save the juice. P. D. CONTENTMENT

Give me to look at life and be
Contented with my share,
To love my spreading maple tree,
The robin nesting there;
To find with my roses few
All that a million blooms could do.

Make me content with what is mine
And put my heart at ease,
I have in every plant and vine
All that a rich man sees;
Not many tulips bloomed this spring
But each one was a lovely thing!

Teach me to value what I own
And let me clearly see
The charm in every petal blown
Upon the breeze to me;
The laughter here as sweetly rings
As in the palaces of kings.

Not in excess of luxuries lie
The happiness men crave,
The rose that loves the dew would die
If deluged by a wave;
Teach men this simple truth to know
Past peace of mind we cannot go.

GOVERNOR INSISTS THAT CRABBE APPEAL BRYAN FARM ACTION

A previous suggestion to Attorney General C. C. Crabbe that the John Bryan case involving constitutional rights of the Calvert act be taken to the Franklin County Court, Appeals and the Ohio Supreme Court for final determination of the validity of the law, was renewed by Governor Vic Donahey Monday.

The John Bryan farm, near Yellow Springs, was accepted for the state by the measure, despite a provision in the bequest which forbade any sort of public religious worship upon the acreage. The measure was passed over the governor's veto two years ago and the Franklin County Common Pleas Court held the law to be valid.

Attorney General Crabbe's determination not to prosecute the case on error is noted by Governor Donahey, who declared that as governor, he cannot pretend to pass upon the law and that the Ohio Council of Churches, at whose request he acted cannot have the law tested. Governor Donahey maintains however, that upon a question of such importance, the judgment of more than one judge should be obtained.

The John Bryan farm again became the center of controversy between Attorney General Crabbe and the governor when the former sent an answer to the chief executive contending he did not intend to "play politics."

"The matter is of importance," continued the governor, "not only because of the instant case, but because it may become a precedent for future donors of property to the state. Certainly, also it is a case for great general and public interest and for that reason the case can be prosecuted to the court of last resort and the people of Ohio will feel much better to have the final voice on so important a question."

"Whatever the policy of your office ordinarily is or may be, and without passing of the question of whether the Attorney General has anything to say about the policy in a case where the state is a party, I again request that you take steps to get the case for the state promptly and properly in the Court of Appeals."

The authority for so directing is in Section 333 of the Ohio General Code. The state is the party and certainly the governor, acting for the state, may say whether the case shall terminate in one court or proceed to a reviewing court."

MERCHANTS WIN TWO GAMES IN TWO DAYS AT DICKINSON PARK

The Xenia Merchants continued their winning streak over the week end, winning the Memorial Day classic Saturday from the Springfield Tigers by a 10 to 3 score and downing the Springfield Stars, Sunday in a ten inning game by an 8 to 7 count.

Lewis hurled the Saturday game at Dickinson park letting the visiting team down with but six scattered hits while his team mates batted out ten safeties off the offerings of Kinsler, Tiger twirler.

Errors by Springfield players accounted for a number of the Marchant runs Lewis went the route for Xenia while two twirlers for Springfield were hit hard.

Two three base blows by A. Jones accounted for two local runs, coming successively in the second and third innings.

Merchant lineup: Porter, lf; Stanhope, rf; Anderson, 3b; Shoecraft, 1b; Brown, ss; J. Jones, cf; A. Jones, 2b; Ewing, c; Lewis, p. Tiger lineup: Finch, cf; Young, 1b; Cooney, 2b; Horstman, lf; F. Kinsler, rf; Ralder, 3b; Martin, ss; Branagan, c; Kinsler, p.

Lewis essayed the iron man stunt and assumed the hurling duties in the game with the Springfield Stars Sunday afternoon at Dickinson Park. The Merchants tied the game at three all in the last of the seventh by scoring three runs. Stanhope, first man up, doubled. Estridge duplicated this feat, scoring Stanhope. Ewing was a strikeout victim. Porter came through with a triple, scoring Estridge. A. Jones got a scratch hit over third scoring Porter. Anderson fouled out.

The visitors went into the lead in the eighth. Holts fanned, but Lewis lost temporary control and walked both Flynn and Hardrick. Donovan singled through short, scoring two runners. Morris fanned. J. Jones doubled in the last half and scored on a scratch single by Estridge.

A. Jones took up the hurling duties and retired the visitors in order in the ninth. Porter was out in the last half with the locals two runs behind but A. Jones doubled and Anderson placed his team on even terms with a four base swat.

Jones' fast curve ball had the Springfield team in complete submission in the tenth while Porter ended the game by knocking the ball over the fence for a home run.

Stubborn Skin Irritations Healed With Cranberries

The mild acid juice found in Cranberries seems to kill the tiny skin parasites which is the direct cause of Eczema and most skin irritations. With the cause removed, the healing takes place quickly. Cranolene Healing Cream, used externally, is based on this discovery. In this cream the cranberry juices have been combined with soothing, cooling, healing oils. Instantly stop the itching and speedily restores the skin to natural health and color. Cranolene sold by druggists 35¢. $1 and $2.50 or sent postpaid on receipt of price. Are you running your Balloon Tires hard or soft?

THE original idea back of balloon tires is the added comfort of riding on a soft cushion of air.

Every extra pound of pressure that must be put into a balloon tire to make it serviceable takes away just so much from the cushioning.

Many balloon tires today are run harder than they should be for maximum cushioning.

This is done to save the tires from excessive wear.

But here is a Balloon Tire that need not be over-inflated to save it from early and uneven tread wear or tread separation.

You can run U. S. Royal low pressure Balloons at true low air pressure and it won't hurt them. Because—

They have the new "Low-Pressure Tread," which prevents early and uneven tread wear—

And they are built of Latex-treated Web Cord, which gives maximum strength and flexibility.

No matter what your experience with other balloon tires may have been—

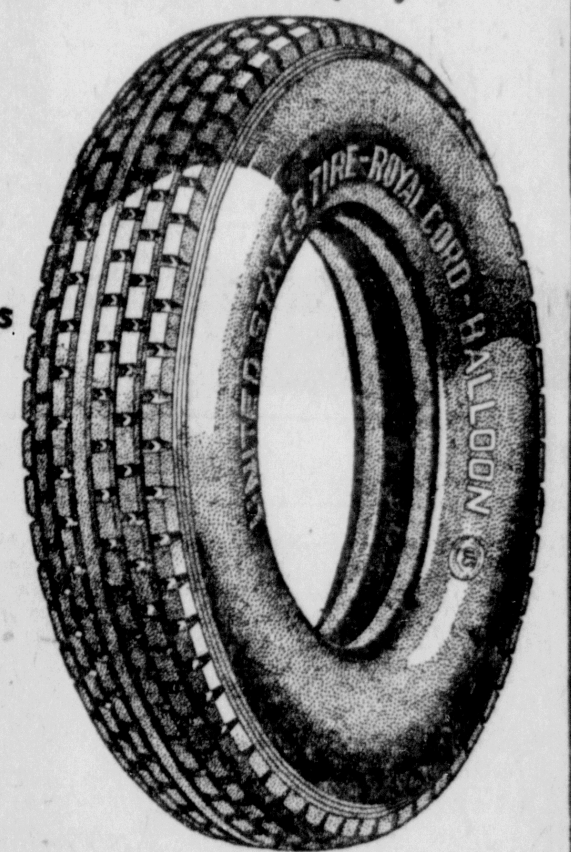

Do not over-inflate these tires to save them from quick and excessive wear.

It is not necessary.

They are made for true low air pressures.

If now and then someone blunders successfully in speculation, full publicity is given the fact, but for reasons that are obvious, not a word is said by the other 99 who gamble and lose!

CLOSING EXERCISES OF CEDARVILLE TO FEATURE THIS WEEK

The week of closing exercises of Cedarville College, was opened Monday night, when the annual class play was presented at the Cedarville Opera House, at 8 o'clock.

The play was the same presented by the senior class of Central High School, this city, "The Whole Town's Talking," by John Emerson and Anita Loos. The piece is full of action and many clever lines and scenes.

The faculty reception will be held Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, to which all friends of the college are invited. The Spring Valley Orchestra will furnish the music for the occasion.

The "Cedar Day" exercises will be held Wednesday afternoon, opening with a ball game and followed by a pageant in which the students of the college will take part. The novel pageant always attracts a large crowd to the college campus.

The second recital of the music department of the college will be given Wednesday night. The class of music pupils of 1925 was so large that the class had to be divided for the annual recital and the first program was given last Friday.

The alumni banquet will be held Thursday evening at 6 o'clock, when graduates of the school will gather to renew acquaintances.

Bishop W. F. McDowell, Washington, D. C., will deliver the address at the commencement exercises, Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Another feature of the commencement exercises will be the appearance of Mrs. Null M. Hodapp, Dayton, leading soprano soloist of Westminster Choir, the world's largest choir.

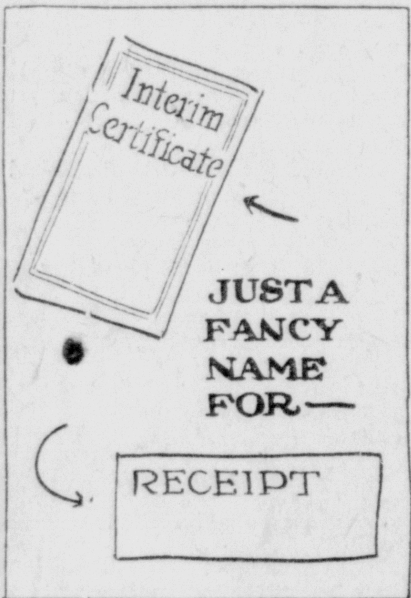

The annual baccalaureate address was delivered by Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of the college at the Reformed Presbyterian Church, Sunday evening.

All exercises will be held in accordance with central standard time.

MONEY

AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

What is an "interim certificate?"

Very frequently, when a bank or bond house sells a bond, that bond is not actually in the bank's possession, because it has not yet been printed. In order to be able to go ahead and sell the bond anyhow the bank will issue buyers of the particular security "interim certificates."

This is merely a technical name for the form of receipt you get for your money. When the actual bond comes to the bank you will be notified of the fact and you must take the interim certificate to the bank and exchange it for the real bond. Do not endorse the interim certificate until it is time to exchange it for the bond as this would allow any one who had the certificate to make the exchange instead of you.

BRINGING UP FATHER

MICHAEL'S MARRIAGE

By MICHAEL

CHAPTER LVIII

These days, crossing the country cooped up in Pullmans that made the head throb and the blood run hot, were a revelation to the couple in State room B, in the next to the last car of the Orange Blossom Limited. A new Michael and a new Lilah were discovered. It was trying for both of them.

The first day they were inseparable; the second found them welcoming an opportunity to be alone for a few minutes. By afternoon of the second day Michael was restless, was ever on the move, either going to or coming from the club car or the observation car. There was a measure of relief in the club car, for the car was not so warm, and cold drinks were available—and the steward closed an eye whenever anyone produced a pocket-flask.

"You're getting awfully annoyed with me, aren't you?" Lilah ventured over their dinner in the dining car. "I realize that I'm a nuisance, but the car gives me a headache and makes me sick. Lord, but they keep the cars hot." "As ever and always," Michael observed. "The hottest places in the world are Pullman cars. But it has to be, I suppose. If there's the slightest amount of air oozing in anywhere, some old maid school-teacher from Kokomo or Kalamazoo complains that she is freezing to death because of the draft."

"Well, it's the heat that is making me so disagreeable." She gazed at him earnestly. "I understand, dear." She had been rather a trial. He hoped the heat was to blame.

"I wonder if the handsome gent at the last table is a movie star?" She motioned with her head in the direction of a table at his rear. A moment later he managed to look around without staring at the young man. A grin spread over his face.

"I'll bet he's a mop and broom drummer for an Omaha whole-sale house! Movie star! Humph!" "Well, he's handsome enough to be."

"Don't ever tell me again that I am handsome. I'll be unable to take it as a compliment."

"Well, just because I married you is no sign that you're the handsomest man in the world."

Michael laughed. "The honeymoon is officially over."

"Oh, you know what I mean!" she blushed. He nodded perfunctorily. "It's dollars to doughnuts that there are at least twenty movie aspirants on this train," he said. "The sweet young thing across the way, for instance." She glanced furtively at the girl he indicated.

Half an hour later he was standing on the observation platform, puffing at a cigarette and endeavoring to cool off, despite the rain of aggravating cinders and dust, when a voice at his side that certainly did not belong to Lilah said: "It's a wonderful night, isn't it?" He turned and saw the "sweet young thing" he had referred to in the dining-car. They were alone.

"Yes, it is," he nodded. He wondered if she really was a movie aspirant. Pretty little thing.

"I'm so disappointed in this country!" she continued. "After all that I've read about it, it seems so lifeless." She was looking across a barren stretch of New Mexico.

"He was moved to respond: 'The real west never was like the story book west.' The unknown one was silent for a moment."

"I wonder if we will get into Los Angeles on time?"

"I suppose so. These limited trains usually do."

"I'm so anxious to get there!"

"I'll bet you're going there to enter the movies!" Their eyes met, and both laughed. They were still laughing when Michael became aware of Lilah's presence in the doorway. He hastened to open the door for her.

She turned back into the car. "Oh, don't let me disturb you." Her eyes flashed.

Jared, he stared after her. But as she disappeared in the Pullman ahead, he turned back and flung himself into a seat in the observation car. There, with a magazine in his hands and a frown conspicuous, he tried to forget the incident. But from his lips escaped a clearly intoned, "Damn!" (To be continued.)

WITNESS LINKS RUSSELL WITH LIQUOR PLOT

THOUSANDS WRAPPED IN NEWSPAPERS ARE GIVEN TO ATTORNEY

Confessed Conspirator Relates Story Before Hayner case Jury

Cleveland, O., June 2.—The tale of how bundles of cash, in packets of $11,200 to $15,000, wrapped in newspapers, were carried in a little black bag to the room of Warren E. Barnett at the Southern Hotel, Columbus will be resumed today when Abe Ungerleider, confessed conspirator in the Armand-Hayner liquor plot, again takes the witness stand.

Facing the jury of twelve men with apparent calm, Ungerleider, a short, rotund man, with blinking eyes, told in a matter of fact voice, how he obtained permit for 8,000 cases of Hayner whiskey, paid out $173,000 to do this and personally made $90,000. Charging that he paid in payments of $11,200 and $15,000, a total of $173,000 to Attorney Barnett, Ungerleider also connected up Joshua E. Russell, former prohibition director of Ohio and Merle B. Copeland, his chief aide, with the conspiracy. It was not direct testimony, however, but conversation he claims to have had with Barnett in which the names of Russell and Copeland were brought out.

"Barnett told me that if his party was appointed he would be able to obtain large withdrawal permits. I was told this party was Russell," Ungerleider declared. "Later when he raised the price from $15 to $20 for each case withdrawn, he explained that Copeland and others were getting their cut."

"I talked to Harry Grossberg about this and he said we would have to raise the price to Peter Higgins, to whom we were selling it," he said.

Ungerleider also declared that he paid $25,000 to Barnett for what he said Barnett described "political purposes."

"Barnett called me and said that government agents were investigating the Armand Drug and Candy Company and that he could fix the two agents for $3,000. I gave him this, Grossberg furnishing half."

Later he said in order to avoid all of us getting into trouble he would have to fix things at Washington and would need $25,000. This was given to him and he went to Washington, Ungerleider said. He also stated that he had purchased warehouse receipts for 400 barrels of whiskey from Cecil B. Kearns, former Toledo drug-gist.

Walter Meals, chief defense counsel for Barnett, cross-examined the witnesses at length concerning Ungerleider's meetings with Barnett, at the Southern hotel. It was first at a card game that he discussed the obtaining of permits with Barnett. He could name no persons at the games and finally contradicted himself and said he had not talked about whiskey at the games.

Harry A. Grossberg, Cleveland, attorney, who had pleaded guilty to the conspiracy, will probably be the second government witness on the stand today. Peter J. Higgins, Youngstown millionaire and former wholesale liquor dealer, will follow Grossberg. It was Higgins who brought packages of $52,000 to Columbus, each time Barnett is alleged to have received the smaller ones. The rest of the money was spent for whiskey. Ungerleider and Grossberg had gotten their slice, according to yesterday's testimony.

MONKEY REFUSED ROOM AT HOTEL

New York, June 2—"No monkeys as guests," the genial clerks at two of New York's exclusive hotels told George M. Dyott, English author and gentleman traveler just arrived from South America, where he made a vain search for "white Indians."

The hotels were glad to accommodate Mr. Dyott, but not the monkey, "Mr. Brown."

Dyott took his monkey, which he captured in the Andes, to a third hotel. There they agreed to take in the monkey.

MELLON SAYS GREAT BRITAIN RESTORED BY PAYING ITS DEBTS

Other Countries Want Better
Terms For Debt
Funding.

Washington, June 2.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon does not believe it will ever be possible for France and other European nations to re-establish their credit, stabilize their currency and return to the gold standard, as has Great Britain, without funding their seven billion dollars of indebtedness to the United States.

This statement was made at the treasury today in the course of a discussion of the international financial situation as it affects the foreign debts of this government.

Pointing out that Great Britain's commission said the funding of her $4,600,000,000 debt to the United States as a big asset in getting back to the gold standard and in putting her fiscal affairs in order officials declared that what was true in the case of England would continue so in the case of the other debtor nations.

"As soon as the Anglo-American debt negotiation was concluded," one member of the American debt commission said, "British credit at once became stronger and British securities in this country went to higher values as compared with values prior to the funding."

It was learned at the treasury that nearly all the nations which have entered into preliminary debt negotiations with the United States have asked for better terms than those accorded Great Britain, that is, funding over a period of sixty years with a minimum interest rate of three percent. As a general rule, however, the American debt commission will regard that congress would not approve any settlement far removed from the British terms, regardless of the attitude of the debt commission.

Officials said it was necessary for the commission to keep the attitude of congress constantly in mind to avoid the possibility of being confronted with the refusal of congress to ratify one of the debt agreements.

As chairman of the American debt commission, Secretary Mellon opposed any proposal to stage debt negotiations anywhere except in Washington. He declared the commission was created to operate in this city and that it would not be practicable for the cabinet members who are on the commission to go abroad.

The opinion also was expected in official quarters that any debt negotiations in Europe in which the United States took part were likely to develop into a general international conference, putting up a united front in favor of cancellation or substantial reduction.

GENERAL STRIKE OF CHINESE INCREASES IN VIOLENCE AGAIN

Twenty Killed and Many Hurt
In Anti-Foreign Riots In Shanghai

Shanghai, June 2.—Spurred by encouragement of soviet propagandists, who declare that "now is the time to strike against foreign imperialism," Chinese throughout the foreign settlement today, launched the second day of their general strike, with increasing violence and anti-foreign bitterness. The total death list is twenty, with many persons injured.

Following an attack on him by a Chinese mob, a Japanese police constable opened fire, killing one rioter and seriously wounding two others.

Other mobs scattered through the foreign section and stoned street cars, which are now running practically empty.

Additional arrests were made today of Chinese reputed to be leaders of the riotous strikers. Trials of the strikers will open tomorrow.

A demand on the foreign consuls for release of those arrested by the Japanese and Sikh police was made in a note delivered today by the Chinese foreign commissioner. It also asked compensation for the families of the rioters who were slain and punishment for those responsible for the deaths.

BAD EGGS THROW BAD EGGS

New York, June 2.—General Owen O'Duffy, chief commissioner of the Irish civic guard, still had a spotless uniform today in spite of having run a gauntlet of bad eggs thrown at his party while reviewing the 165th infantry, formerly known as the "Fighting Sixty Ninth."

The missiles, alleged to have been thrown by a delegation from the Clan Na-Gael as a protest against the Irish Free State, did not hit anyone in General O'Duffy's party. The general met the barrage with smiles.

One hundred plain clothes men and a squad of M. P.'s quickly routed those responsible for the disturbance.

PARTY CONVENTION PLAN TO BE DISCUSSED AT MEET

SPECIAL COMMITTEE MEETS IN COLUMBUS FOR INQUIRY IN LAW

Will Seek Modernization of Election Code In Ohio
Is Report

Columbus, O., June 2.—Plans for resumption of the convention method of picking candidates for election to state and local offices are to be studied in connection with the inquiry into Ohio election laws to be opened here today at an organization meeting of the special committee created by the 1925 legislature.

Complete modernization of the Ohio election code is to be sought by the committee. One of the most important suggestions expected to be offered is substitution of the Massachusetts ballot system for the present modified form of the Australian ballot. Changes to be studied include the registration statutes, the form of ballot and the tangle of primary elections.

The committee is expected to name as its secretary an expert on election matters who will probably be recommended by Secretary of State Thad H. Brown, chief supervisor of elections in Ohio. R. J. Dustman, Columbus, has been suggested. Plans are to be made for a study of election laws in most of the progressive states to the end that the Ohio election code may be completely modernized.

Proposals are expected to be presented to the committee for permanent registration of voters; for annual and quinquennial registration, as well as for compulsory enrollment of all electors in the state. The final report of the committee's work will be made to the 1927 general assembly. Most of its conclusions will have to be made after the November general elections when the proposed constitutional amendment providing for four year terms for all elective state and county offices will be voted upon by the people.

The two efforts of Republican state leaders to have the legislature enact a convention bill are expected to be the basis of the study of suggested changes in the direct primary laws to be undertaken by the committee. One was the ill fated primary convention bill, which was withdrawn for lack of support and the other the Aigler convention resolution which proposed a constitutional amendment substituting the convention system for the primary system in selection of candidates for state and county offices.

Both measures died without a vote. The committee includes State Senators Carpenter, of Jefferson; Gardner, of Hamilton and Chappellear, of Pickaway; State Representatives Hunt of Lucas, Keifer of Clark and Knapp of Medina; Secretary of State Brown; Ray Hillebrand of Hamilton County election board, and A. J. Hirstius, secretary of the Cuyahoga County elections board.

LIGHTNING TAKING DEATH TOLL IN WAKE OF HEAT CASUALTIES

Thunderstorms Follow Hottest June 1 In Ohio
Is Prediction

Chicago, June 2.—Severe electrical storms were sweeping the midwest today bringing in relief from the first real torrid weather of the season which yesterday claimed victims in a score of cities as thermometers climbed into the nineties.

Four were dead in Chicago proper as a result of the hottest June 1 in history, making a total of six heat deaths since Sunday. Yesterday's maximum here was 92.2, reached at 4:30 p. m. but today started more auspiciously with the thermometers hovering around eighty and the weather bureau predicted that there would be little if any rise during the day.

The thunderstorms crashing through the hot, dry air in the wake of the heat also were taking their toll of human life and property damage.

Two, a golfer and a farmer, were killed by lightning bolts at Des Moines and seven were injured, two perhaps fatally at Sioux City, Iowa, where more than a dozen homes were demolished, trees uprooted and wire communications paralyzed.

And while the midwest suffered, it was snowing at Rock Springs, Wyoming. There was a fall of eight inches there after several days of unseasonable cold.

Cleveland, O., June 2.—Another day of sweltering heat, following the hottest June 1 recorded in fifty-four years in Ohio weather history, faced Cleveland and other parts of the state today. Thunderstorms tomorrow were expected to ameliorate the intense heat which has taken three lives in Cleveland and suburbs. The highest mark here yesterday was 91. Marietta suffered under a temperature of 95, the highest recorded in the state, Lima being second with 94.

Heat victims in Cleveland and suburbs included C. H. Benedict, 67, Wooster; Thomas Moran and Frank Mikloski, Cleveland.

FAIRFIELD PIKE TO BE IMPROVED WITH STATE ROAD MONEY

Greene County Commissioners announced Monday following a conference with members of the state highway department at Columbus, that a total of $54,000 has been set aside by the state to aid in the construction and remodeling of the Fairfield Pike.

The Fairfield Pike, inter-county highway No. 525, Section 1, will be remodeled into a hard surface road from the Springfield Pike to the Byron cross road, a distance of three and three fourths miles.

The $54,000 assigned to Greene County represents inter-county highway funds and state aid in the project. The cost of construction will be borne by the county and state on a fifty-fifty basis.

County Commissioners may not make use of the fund nor begin work of actual construction until a formal application is made to the state department for aid. Under the provisions of a new law, recently enacted, an application can not be made before July 16, when the law becomes effective.

No estimate can be made on the total cost of construction until it is decided what type of pike will be laid, it is said. Estimates will be taken on several different types of roads, it was announced.

Actual improvement work probably can not be launched this year since a survey must first be made of the pike.

Auditor Lutz will be the speaker of the occasion and tell of the problems connected with the reappraisal his county met and solved. Montgomery County recently completed a reappraisal. The meeting is called for 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

BAKER-CRONIN NUPTIALS TAKE PLACE ON MONDAY

A pretty ceremony was performed at the parsonage of St. Brigid Church Monday evening at 5 o'clock, when Miss Florence Baker and Mr. John Cronin were united in marriage by the Rev. David A. Powers.

The couple was attended by Miss Sarah Braun of Dayton and Mr. Luke Fletcher of this city. The bride wore an attractive ensemble of yellow beaded crepe with a hat of a corresponding shade. Her corsage was of sweet peas.

A wedding dinner followed the ceremony at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Cronin, on Maple Street. Thirty guests were seated at small tables throughout the rooms. Yellow and white appointments were effectively employed and at the bride's table, which was prettily laid, covers were of Mr. and Mrs. John Cronin, Miss Sarah Braun, Mr. Luke Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Cronin, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Reynolds, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cronin, Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. John Downes, Mr. Joseph McCabe and Mr. Michael O'Connor.

Mr. and Mrs. Cronin left on a brief honeymoon trip, Monday night. Mrs. Cronin wore away a crepe frock in a dark shade, with a hat to match. On their return they will reside in the Hudson Apartments, South Detroit Street.

Mrs. Cronin has been residing with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ray on Hiveling Street and was employed at the law offices of Miller and Finney as stenographer. Mr. Cronin is employed as conductor on the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, between Columbus and Xenia.

SUNDAY "BLUE LAW" WAR MARKS TIME AS JOHNSON IS ABSENT

The Sunday closing law war was at a standstill Tuesday pending the return to Xenia of Attorney F. L. Johnson, who is foremost in the drive to make Sunday closing obligatory in Greene County.

Information gained by two private detectives who scoured the county last Sunday in search of merchants doing their usual business on Sunday in violation of the state law was scheduled to be turned into affidavits Tuesday with wholesale arrests following, but the absence of Attorney Johnson necessitated the postponement of this action until probably Wednesday.

Street rumors were current Tuesday to the effect that between thirty and thirty-five affidavits had been prepared against Xenia and Greene County merchants engaging in common labor last Sunday.

Merchants who may be affected by the Sunday closing law are not worried outwardly at the prospect of possible citation in court, but are conducting business as usual.

TRIAL POSTPONED

Trial of Lewis Swan, this city, on a charge of unlawful possession of narcotics, scheduled to begin in Common Pleas Court Tuesday before Judge R. L. Gowdy, has been continued until an early date in July, it was announced Tuesday. Swan was indicted by the Grand Jury for unlawful possession of drugs and entered a plea of not guilty at his arraignment.

HERE COMES DOLLAR DAY!

Thursday, June 11, will be semi-annual Dollar Day.

This bit of interesting information was imparted to the press Tuesday by merchants who are conviving to offer Greene County buyers their mid-summer feast of bargain catching.

Greene County knows its Dollar Days, and has come to look for them with ever growing enthusiasm. They know merchants select these special sale days as the opportune moment to move stock from shelves and convert it into cash at almost any sacrifice. They know it gives the merchant the opportunity to move goods to make way for later buying and they have come to know that the public benefits.

Merchants have several reasons for making Dollar Day a real bargain day this year, but they are keeping them quiet. The conspiracy is afoot and the plot thickens. Prices, they say, will be slashed and slaughtered brutally and buyers, no doubt, will be on hand for the carnage in large numbers. Details will be announced later.

ANGLERS MUST GET LICENSE BY TEAMS OF NEW LAW IN OHIO

A copy of Amended Senate Bill No. 4, providing that no person shall catch fish by angling with reel and rod in any waters of this state or engage in fishing with reel or rod without first procuring a license, has been received by Clerk of Courts Harvey Elam.

Attorney General C. C. Crabbe has ruled that the bill is an emergency measure and therefore becomes effective immediately. However, supplies of the new licenses, said to resemble hunting licenses, have not been received in Xenia.

Persons under eighteen years of age are exempt from the law and may fish without first obtaining a license since the law is believed to be only aimed at ardent sportsmen.

The applicant must pay the clerk in authority to grant licenses $2 if a non-resident of Ohio and $1 for a license, if a resident. A fee of twenty-five cents is also assessed applicants who are non-residents of the state in addition to a clerk's fee.

Village and township clerks and clerks of courts are empowered to grant licenses. The money derived from the sale of licenses will be appropriated by the state for the use of the director of agriculture in the preservation and protection of fish and hatcheries and fish culture.

Persons and their families living on property in which a stream passes through, are exempt from procuring a license to fish in their own stream as are tenants on their farms and their families.

The minimum fine for violation of this law is $25 and the maximum fine, $200.

PAROLE PRISONERS FROM COUNTY JAIL

W. R. Allen, Jamestown and James Baker, colored Cedarville, prisoners in the County Jail, have been paroled by Greene County Commissioners, it was announced Tuesday.

Allen was convicted of a charge of possessing liquor by George W. Bishop, mayor of Jamestown, January 2, 1925 and sent to jail in default of payment of an $800 fine and costs. He was paroled on condition that he pay the fine and costs less a credit of $100.00 at the rate of $3 a month.

Baker was convicted of a similar charge of possessing liquor.

RESIDENTS OF GERMAN Y PARTIES TO SUIT HERE TO BREAK WILL OF GEORGE BRANDT

Suit has been filed in Common Pleas Court through Attorney Frank L. Johnson to set aside the will of George Brandt, who died May 30, 1924, leaving an estate and plaintiffs named in the suit as the only heirs, according to the petition.

Twenty-four plaintiffs are named in the suit and twenty-seven defendants. A number of the parties named in the action are residents of Germany.

Following are the plaintiffs: Herman; Leonard and George Volkenand; Anna Grotfeller, nee Volkenand; Martha Higgins, nee Volkenand; Ernest and George Zinn; Mrs. Emma Nolde, John Malkmes, Konrad and John George Malkmes; Anna Katherine Ekhardt, nee Malkmes; Anna Margarethe Fischer, nee Eichler; Herman Johann Volkenand, Johann Simon Volkenand, Nicolas Brandt, Johannes George, Brandt, George Brandt, Anna Kirschner, nee Brandt, Anna Margarethe Spangenberg nee Schneider, and Peter Schneider, Margarethe Krause, Anna Katherine Beck, and Katherine Elizabeth Eichler.

Defendants in the action: George Ferguson, executor of the estate of George Brandt, deceased; Anna Han-stedt, Martha Hanstedt, Mary Hanstedt, William McCallister, Sadie McCallister, and William M. McCallister Jr., a minor, Louise McCallister, a minor, Norbert McCallister, a minor, Marcus McCallister, children of William and Sadie McCallister, surviving; George Brandt, Arthur Moon, Dr. Geo. Anderson, Winifred Anderson Sugden, Florence Spahr Pennewitt, Marietta Spahr, Mt. Zion Church, George Smith, Bert Hawker and Otto Kelter, trustees of church; Mt. Zion Cemetery Ed Shoup, Harry Darst and Neal Zimmerman, trustees of Cemetery, Jas. Zechman, Charles Coy and Mrs. May Coy.

The plaintiffs claim that a paper, purporting to be the last will of George Brandt, deceased, and bearing the date of June 8, 1922 was admitted to probate and named the defendants as the several legatees of the deceased.

The plaintiffs claim it was not the last will and ask that it be set aside and equitable relief.

A plea in abatement to the action was filed Tuesday by the executor of the estate of George Brandt, deceased through Attorney Charles L. Darlington, denying that any of the plaintiffs are heirs and asking that the petition be dismissed.

Attorneys Alfred K. Nippert, Raymond Ratliff, Charles W. Finch and F. L. Johnson represent the plaintiffs in the suit.

MANSLAUGHTER CASE DROPPED IN COURT

A charge of manslaughter against J. W. Davis, 27, colored, Dayton, was dismissed Tuesday at his arraignment before Squire R. O. Copsey because of insufficient evidence. Davis was immediately released from custody. He had pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Coroner R. L. Haines, Jamestown, following an inquest into the death of Clyde Thornton, colored of Dayton, as the result of an automobile accident on the Dayton and Xenia pike, two weeks ago, held Davis as driver of the car responsible.

MODISH MITZI—Mitzi Rises At Cockcrow

After all, thinks Mitzi, this is one of the minor evils of life in the country and as long as she is away she may as well get up. Your attention is invited to her nightgown—of crepe de chine with frills of the same—and a neatly tailored pocket to hold a handkerchief.

In pursuance of her plan and in accord with her ardent though new, love for the simple life Mitzi will put on a house dress of blue linen. She may want to do some gardening or go down to the post office or watch the morning train come in. For all these events the linen dress is suitable.

Yet the figured voile is awfully attractive and is made with a long tunic, though you can't see that. Yellow, with black squares and a thread of black outlining a large check. Undoubtedly this is more becoming and Mitzi has practically decided that this is much the best frock of all.

However it's her mind and Mitzi can change it—and evidently has since this dress is of striped cotton broadcloth with a frill and trimmings of the same material in white. Also it seems to be much later than it was—in fact it's doubtful whether anyone will be impressed at Mitzi's early rising, at all.

A NATIONAL LOSS

DEATH stalks pitilessly among the stalwart statesmen of the Republican faith. The flowers on Rodger's grave had not withered when Hon. Arthur B. Williams of Michigan, was summoned to answer the last roll call. Williams was a comparatively young man, 53, yet he brought to Congress a three-ply wealth of experience which added greatly to the intellectual capital of that body. He had by turns achieved success as a farmer, a banker and a large manufacturer before he laid his talents on the altar of his country. To him the honors and emoluments of office meant little. In a sense, that he might more effectively serve the nation, he accepted dejection.

Williams was unquestionably the foremost authority in official life on the subject of co-operative farm marketing, and the bill he drafted on that question was one of the most constructive and carefully planned pieces of legislation that has ever been offered for Congressional consideration. It received little momentum in the last session due to the fact that the so-called bloc that has been "farming the farmers" apparently could agree on nothing practical to help the farmer along, and so they quashed real legislation. The Williams Bill will probably come up for action in the next session of Congress, and out of deference to its dead author it would be well if his name were perpetuated by permitting the bill to retain its present name.

CHILDREN AND NEWSPAPERS

MOOSEHEART, as most people know, is the place where the Order of Moose maintains a famous home and school for whose existence Secretary of Labor Davis is largely responsible. Matthew R. Adams, known as the "father," also the "mother," of the 1,250 children assembled there, wants the youngsters to be fully educated, and education, he believes, involves an acquaintance with the life of the world and of the community around them that can only be derived from the newspapers. Therefore he wants the children under his care to read the newspapers and to get the habit of such reading.

Mr. Adams disagrees entirely with the parents and teachers who are afraid their children and pupils will be influenced to evil by the stories of crime published in the papers—as if reports of crime were the only things published, and as if normally intelligent and well-trained children would not be influenced against it by the stories of vicious conduct rather than impelled to imitate. Two criminal events to which more space has been given in the American press than any others in the last year or so took place not so very far from Mooseheart. One was the tragedy at Herrin, the other the deliberate and unprovoked murder in Chicago by two boys of a younger lad. It is not likely that the Mooseheart boys will engage in mob violence and savage slaughter of their neighbors when they grow up as a result of knowing of the horrors of Herrin or that they will be moved to kill schoolmates for the mere sake of killing because of reading of what occurred in Chicago and of the fate of the young criminals.

Children who grow to maturity in this or any other country must and do learn from one source, if not another that crime and vice do exist in the world and all around them. They must know these things for their own protection, and nowhere can they learn them with less harm to themselves than from the calm, unbiased narration of facts by reputable newspapers. The superintendent of Mooseheart thinks there is so much in a newspaper of interest and value, so much useful information, so many stories of bravery, sacrifice, great deeds, so many inspiring ideas and such human sympathy that it can not safely be missed as a part of a liberal education. He is right in every particular. If the people who want, or profess to want, records of crime omitted from papers, or at least kept off the front page and hidden in some obscure corner, would devote themselves to an enumeration of the commendable reading matter in the columns, they would find the space given to crime small in comparison.

CONTENTMENT

Give me to look at life and be
Contented with my share,
To love my spreading maple tree,
The robins nesting there;
To find within my roses few
All that a million blooms could do.

Make me content with what is mine
And put my heart at ease,
I have in every plant and vine
All that a rich man sees;
Not many tulips bloomed this spring
But each one was a lovely thing!

Teach me to value what I own
And let me clearly see
The charm in every petal blown
Upon the breeze to me;
The laughter here as sweetly rings
As in the palaces of kings.

Not in excess of luxuries lie
The happiness men crave.
The rose that loves the dew would die
If deluded by a wave;
Teach men this simple truth to know
Fast peace of mind we cannot go.

"M. M.: A reader of your column recently asked for a recipe for pastry made with eggs. I have used the following for fruit pies, tarts and fancy little cakes. Egg Pastry—Drib one fourth pound of butter into one half pound of flour with the fingers, then add one ounce of sugar and one half teaspoon of baking powder, and stir in two beaten egg-yolks. Whisk lightly, turn out onto a bread board, and roll out at once. If you wish to use it for pie crust, simply line the pie pan with it, as with any other pastry. But if you would like to make a fancy cake of it, try the following:

Almond Fingers: Line a long-shaped pan with the pastry made as above directed, then spread a little raspberry jam over the pastry on the pan bottom and fill with the following mixture: Blanch and chop six ounces of sweet almonds; mix them with three ounces of sugar, and fold in the stiffly whipped whites of two eggs. Slip the pan into a hot oven to set the pastry, then reduce oven heat to moderate and continue to bake for about 30 minutes."

"Mrs. M. S.: Some time ago one of our column sisters asked for a recipe for Cinnamon Stars, which I happen to have: Beat the white of three eggs very stiff, then stir into them one-half pound of sugar; continue to stir for about 30 minutes, after which add three tablespoons of ground cinnamon and one half pound Turn the mixture out onto a board which has been sprinkled with flour and sugar, and roll it to about one quarter inch in thickness (no thicker—indeed, it is better a little thinner, if possible.) Now cut out with a star-shaped tin cutter (or any desired shape) and place the stars on a buttered pan. Bake in an oven which is between luke-warm and moderate, never hot, as the little cakes burn easily. I hope you can understand this. It is translated from an old German recipe."

Today's Talks

Joseph Conrad was nearly 40 year of age when he wrote his first book, though he was recognized at his death as the greatest prose writer in the world.

Disraeli who became Prime Minister of Great Britain, was once a champion boxer and fighter and left the ring undefeated. Now I understand why he was such a great fighter as a statesman.

Walt Mason, whose quaint prose-rhymes have delighted millions for many 20 years, was unknown and discouraged at the age of 43.

And this list could be continued until it covered this newspaper. The fact is that ripeness doesn't come in youth. But youth may be carried into age and share all the fruits of ripeness.

Youth is glorious in all its beauty and passion, its aspiration and its risks, but age with its ripeness of experience and knowledge is far more wonderful and beautiful. As much more so as the sun in its setting of golds and purples and crimsons when day is done.

A few weeks ago I passed through a country rich in apple trees that made the very roadside a garden.

The May blossoms gave the trees an appearance of lacework. But I remembered taking that same journey only last autumn and seeing those very trees laden with apples that were green and red and luscious in their appetite appeal. And so I saw apple pies and apple butter and sweet cider—just a little way off from those branches of loveliness.

And who would not prefer the autumn of the apple tree to its springtime, beautiful as it is?

We are glad of both. That is the way the great Creator meant it to be. We must have beauty and with it the ripeness of fruit.

But it takes work and thought and love to bring about the blossom. And without the blossom there can be no ripe fruit.

GOVERNOR INSISTS THAT CRABBE APPEAL BRYAN FARM ACTION

A previous suggestion to Attorney General C. C. Crabbe that the John Bryan case involving constitutional rights of the Calvert act be taken to the Franklin County Court, of Appeals and the Ohio Supreme Court for final determination of the validity of the law, was renewed by Governor Vio Donahay Monday.

The John Bryan farm, near Yellow Springs, was accepted for the state by the measure, despite a provision in the bequest which forbade any sort of public religious worship upon the acreage. The measure was passed over the governor's veto two years ago and the Franklin County Common Pleas Court held the law to be valid.

Attorney General Crabbe's determination not to prosecute the case on appeal is noted by Governor Donahay, who declared that as governor, he cannot pretend to pass upon the law and that the Ohio Council of Churches, at whose request he acted cannot have the law tested. Governor Donahay maintains however, that upon a question of such importance, the judgment of more than one judge should be obtained.

The John Bryan farm again became the center of controversy between Attorney General Crabbe and the governor when the former sent an answer to the chief executive contending he did not intend to "play politics."

"The matter is of importance," continued the governor, "not only because of the instant case, but because it may become a precedent for future donors of property to the state. Certainly, also it is a case for great general and public interest and for that reason the case can be prosecuted to the court of last resort and the people of Ohio will feel much better to have the final voice on so important a question."

"Whatever the policy of your office ordinarily is or may be, and without passing of the question of whether the Attorney General has anything to say about the policy in a case where the state is a party, I again request that you take steps to get the case for the state promptly and properly in the Court of Appeals."

"The authority for so directing is in Section 333 of the Ohio General Code. The state is the party and certainly the governor, acting for the state, may say whether the case shall terminate in one court or proceed to a reviewing court."

MERCHANTS WIN TWO GAMES IN TWO DAYS AT DICKINSON PARK

The Xenia Merchants continued their winning streak over the week end, winning the Memorial Day classic Saturday from the Springfield Tigers by a 10 to 3 score and downing the Springfield Stars, Sunday in a ten inning game by an 8 to 7 count.

Lewis hurled the Saturday game at Dickinson park letting the visiting team down with but six scattered hits while his team mates batted out ten safeties off the offerings of Kinsler, Tiger twirler.

Errors by Springfield players accounted for a number of the Marchant runs Lewis went the route for Xenia while two twirlers for Springfield were hit hard.

Two three base blows by A. Jones accounted for two local runs, coming successively in the second and third innings.

Merchant lineup: Porter, lf; Stanhope, rf; Anderson, 3b; Shoecraft, 1b; Brown, ss; J. Jones, cf; A. Jones, 2b; Ewing, c; Lewis, p. Tiger lineup: Finch, cf; Young, 1b; Cooney, 2b; Horstman, lf; F. Kinsler, rf; Ralder, 3b; Martin, ss; Branagan, c; Kinsler, p.

Lewis essayed the iron man stunt and assumed the hurling duties in the game with the Springfield Stars Sunday afternoon at Dickinson Park.

The Merchants tied the game at three all in the last of the seventh by scoring three runs. Stanhope, first man up, doubled, Estridge duplicated this feat, scoring Stanhope. Ewing was a strikeout victim. Porter came through with a triple, scoring Estridge. A. Jones got a scratch hit over third scoring Porter. Anderson fouled out.

The visitors went into the lead in the eighth. Holts fanned, but Lewis lost temporary control and walked both Flynn and Hardrick. Donovan singled through short, scoring two runners. Morris fanned. J. Jones doubled in the last half and scored on a scratch single by Estridge.

A. Jones took up the hurling duties and retired the visitors in order in the ninth. Porter was out in the last half with the locals two runs behind but A. Jones doubled and Anderson placed his team on even terms with a four base swat.

Jones' fast curve ball had the Springfield team in complete submission in the tenth while Porter ended the game by knocking the ball over the fence for a home run.

Xenia lineup: Porter, lf; A. Jones, 3b; Anderson, ss; Shoecraft, 1b; J. Jones, cf; Lewis, p; Stanhope, rf; Cockran, cf; Estridge, 2b; Ewing, c; Springfield lineup: Tuck, 3b; Hotta, c; Flynn, 2b; Hardrick, ss; Donovan, 1b; Lewis, rf; Massie, cf; Morris, lf; H. Morris, p.

Are you running your Balloon Tires hard or soft?

THE original idea back of balloon tires is the added comfort of riding on a soft cushion of air.

Every extra pound of pressure that must be put into a balloon tire to make it serviceable takes away just so much from the cushioning.

Many balloon tires today are run harder than they should be for maximum cushioning.

This is done to save the tires from excessive wear.

But here is a Balloon Tire that need not be over-inflated to save it from early and uneven tread wear or tread separation.

You can run U.S. Royal low pressure Balloons at true low air pressure and it won't hurt them.

Because—

They have the new "Low-Pressure Tread," which prevents early and uneven tread wear—

And they are built of Latex-treated Web Cord, which gives maximum strength and flexibility.

No matter what your experience with other balloon tires may have been—

Do not over-inflate these tires to save them from quick and excessive wear.

It is not necessary.

They are made for true low air pressures.

The "Cedar Day" exercises will be held Wednesday afternoon, opening with a ball game and followed by a pageant in which the students of the college will take part. The novel pageant always attracts a large crowd to the college campus.

The alumni banquet will be held Thursday evening at 6 o'clock, when graduates of the school will gather to renew acquaintances.

Bishop W. F. McDowell, Washington, D. C., will deliver the address at the commencement exercises, Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

The annual baccalaureate address was delivered by Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of the college at the Reformed Presbyterian Church, Sunday evening.

All exercises will be held in accordance with central standard time.

MONEY

AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

What is an "interim certificate?"

Very frequently, when a bank or bond house sells a bond, that bond is not actually in the bank's possession, because it has not yet been printed. In order to be able to go ahead and sell the bond anyhow the bank will issue buyers of the particular security "interim certificates."

This is merely a technical name for the form of receipt you get for your money. When the actual bond comes to the bank you will be notified of the fact and you must take the interim certificate to the bank and exchange it for the real bond. Do not endorse the interim certificate until it is time to exchange it for the bond as this would allow any one who had the certificate to make the exchange instead of you.

BRINGING UP FATHER

MICHAEL'S MARRIAGE

By MICHAEL

CHAPTER LVIII

These days, crossing the country cooped up in Pullmans that made the head throb and the blood run hot, were a revelation to the couple in Stateroom B, in the next to the last car of the Orange Blossom Limited. A new Michael and a new Lilah were discovered. It was trying for both of them.

The first day they were inseparable; the second found them welcoming an opportunity to be alone for a few minutes. By afternoon of the second day Michael restlessly was ever on the move, either going to, or coming from the club car or the observation car. There was a measure of relief in the club car, for the car was not so warm, and cold drinks were available—and the steward closed an eye whenever anyone produced a pocket-flask.

"You're getting awfully annoyed with me, aren't you?" Lilah ventured over their dinner in the dining car. "I realize that I'm a nuisance, but the car gives me a headache and makes me sick. Lord, but they keep the cars hot."

"As ever and always," Michael observed. "The hottest places in the world are Pullman cars. But it has to be, I suppose. If there's the slightest amount of air oozing in anywhere, some old maid school-teacher from Kokomo or Kalamazoo complains that she is freezing to death because of the draft."

"Well, it's the heat that is making me so disagreeable," Lilah gazed at him earnestly. "I understand, dear." She had been rather a trial. He hoped the heat was to blame.

"I wonder if the handsome gent at the last table is a movie star?" She motioned with her head in the direction of a table at her rear. A moment later he managed to look around without staring at the young man. A grin spread over his face.

"I'll bet he's a mop and broom drummer for an Omaha wholesale house! Movie star! Humph!" "Well, he's handsome enough to be."

"Don't ever tell me again that I am handsome. I'll be unable to take it as a compliment."

"Well, just because I married you is no sign that you're the handsomest man in the world."

Michael laughed. "The honeymoon is officially over."

"Oh, you know what I mean!" she blushed. He nodded perfunctorily. "It's dollars to doughnuts that there are at least twenty movie aspirants on this train," he said. "The sweet young thing across the way, for instance." She glanced furtively at the girl he indicated.

Half an hour later he was standing on the observation platform, puffing at a cigarette and endeavoring to cool off, despite the rain of aggravating cinders and dust, when a voice at his side that certainly did not belong to Lilah said: "It's a wonderful night, isn't it?" He turned and saw the "sweet young thing" he had referred to in the dining car. They were alone.

"Yes, it is," he nodded. He wondered if she really was a movie aspirant. Pretty little thing.

"I'm so disappointed in this country," she continued. "After all that I've read about it, it seems so lifeless."

She was looking across a barren stretch of New Mexico.

He was moved to respond: "The real west never was like the story-book west."

The unknown one was silent for a moment.

"I wonder if we will get into Los Angeles on time?"

"I suppose so. These limited trains usually do."

"I'm so anxious to get there!" "I'll bet you're going there to enter the movies!" Their eyes met, and both laughed. They were still laughing when Michael became aware of Lilah's presence in the doorway. He hastened to open the door for her.

She turned back into the car. "Oh, don't let me disturb you." Her eyes flashed.

Jarred, he stared after her. But as she disappeared in the Pullman ahead, he turned back and flung himself into a seat in the observation car. There, with a magazine in his hands and a frown conspicuous, he tried to forget the incident. But from his lips escaped a clearly intoned, "Damn!"
